

MISS ELIZABETH SCHOBEL.

A Woman Who Has Proved a Successful Theatrical Manager.

Chicago has the only woman theater manager in the United States. There was another not long ago in the south but now Elizabeth Schobel, guiding power at the Bush temple, on the north side, is alone in her sphere. Mar managers held the same position at the Bush before Miss Schobel, but not until she assumed charge did the theater thrive. From the time she was appointed the little stock theater progressed until now it is said to be the most prosperous playhouse of its kind in America.

Like all other enterprises, the family theater had a struggle in the beginning. The proprietors of the house, however, were determined to place it on a paying basis. The services of good managers, good directors and good players were secured. They fought their fight. Some remained, others were vanquished, but about three years ago Miss

MISS ELIZABETH SCHOBEL.

Schobel, in whom one of the owners recognized a woman of extraordinary executive ability, was employed to assist in the maintaining of the theater. She came from her home in Dixon, Ill., without an hour's theatrical experience. At first she looked after general business matters and the box office. Within a year she was thoroughly conversant with all departments of the theater. She had an inquiring mind, an artistic temperament and a heart interest in her work.

Then, two years ago, a general manager was needed. Miss Schobel had displayed judgment, accuracy and shrewdness in every previous task assigned her. This gave her the position she now holds on her own merits, through her own ability and qualifications. And now the theater is a decided success, with a woman—and a young woman at that—to thank. It has been a successful producer of plays. Although a neighborhood family stock theater, it has run some shows for several weeks at a time. This is what Elizabeth Schobel has done for the playhouse.—Chicago Post.

Posing For a Photograph.

When you visit the photographer's studio note these pits for the unwary:

An attempt to "look pleasant" usually results in the drawn smile of a patient, life long sufferer and will cause the recipient of the photograph to speculate as to what secret sorrow you attempt to meet with a smiling face.

Unless your throat is above criticism do not wear a collarless or decollete waist. A neck which is not plump will appear actually scrawny in the photograph.

If you are blond, remember that black will furnish the best setting for your charms, while the brunette is at her best in white.

If you attempt a dreamy expression, you may expect a "wall eyed" photograph. If your lips are closed tight, you will appear as a disciple of Slylock.

Always arrange your hair in the accustomed way. A new or uncomfortable gown will cause a stiff and awkward picture. Wear clothing that has become "set" to the figure and appears as part of you—a harmonious whole rather than a figure exhibiting new wearing apparel.—Holland's Magazine.

A Homemade Hatpin.

"I'm from the country," said a plainly dressed but wholesome looking girl, who was the special guest of the New York girl who presided over the chocolate pot, "but if you won't all laugh I'll tell you about a little fashion of mine that I don't think is half bad. I wanted something new in a hatpin not long ago—something original—and I couldn't afford a jeweled pin, so I made a hatpin for myself. I first bought a cheap silver hatpin. The head of this I covered with a thin layer of wadding; then from a piece of cloth of gold I cut a circle an inch and a half in diameter, and in the center I embroidered my monogram. After this was finished I slipped up the piece of gold cloth and slipped it over the head of the hatpin and then wound silk around the base of the head until it was tight, just as the wire is wound around a broom. It made a very pretty hatpin, and it cost only a few cents. If your monogram makes too complicated a design a single embroidered flower looks very attractive."—Grace Margaret Gould in Woman's Home Companion.

An Animal Story For Little Folks

The Dog Who Had His Day

Mr. Hoss and Beedle Dog were great cronies. One never saw them separated. They both belonged to an old farmer named Screw, who was very appropriately named, so they both thought, as he got all he could out of every one and spared none.

He was especially hard on Mr. Hoss, whom he forced to work all day in the hot sun and beat and kicked him sadly when he lagged.

"It's a shame," whined Beedle Dog as he crept into Mr. Hoss' stall for the night. "He makes you work too hard. He's a cruel old fike."

"Well, you see," said the horse, "he doesn't understand. He never has to pull a heavy cart, and he doesn't know how we suffer."

"Better teach him, then," said Beedle curtly. "I always believe in giving folks all the information they need."

"How are you going to do it?" queried the horse, munching a mouthful.

"I'll tell you. Tomorrow when he lets you out you make tracks down the road when he isn't looking. Hide in the grove a mile down the road and leave the rest to me."

RATHER WARM.

When Mr. Screw came to look for Mr. Hoss next day he was gone.

"Wonder where in the name o' sense he went to now?" he growled.

"I know," spoke up Beedle. "He's sick down the road yonder—awful sick; worked too hard. Guess he'll die."

"How do you know, you brute?" "Saw him," said Beedle. "Better get your wagon and go down and get him, or you'll have a funeral."

"How'm I to get it down that?" "Pull it, I guess. Walking's good."

So off they set, Beedle heading at a rapid pace and poor Mr. Screw pulling hard between the shafts.

"My, it's hot!" said Screw.

"Rather warm," said Beedle.

"Heavy as lead," said Screw.

"Rather weighty," laughed Beedle.

Soon they came to Mr. Hoss. Mr. Screw was played out.

"Feel better?" said Beedle.

"Yes. I'll pull home," the horse replied.

As they went down the road Beedle said:

"Guess he knows now."—Atlanta Constitution.

Let in the Light.

Get plenty of light into your room, hall and passages, says an authority. You cannot have too much. Light in a house makes for health of mind and body. Gloom makes for gloom of mind and affects the body injuriously. See that all windows are provided with shutters. Sliding shutters are the best, as they can be closed in any weather without difficulty. And, if you wish your house to be warm as a bed, have double shutters, one on the outer and one on the inner side of each window.
